Abdullah Baaqil

Group 10

Group Project

The Individual Deliverable

This group project was one of the interesting and challenging things at the same time. we faced some problems with some components because some of them we use for the first time. Moreover, we had some contacting issues and availability issues. When someone is free the other is not, which made it challenging for us. At the end, we collaborate to do this project and we did it.

I learned many things in this group project. I learned at first how to manage my time to finish the project in time. Furthermore, I practically learned how to use some components that look new to me. I asked my friend to help me use those components and he did. The project will be better if represent the project physically.